By The Associated Press

ASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — mocrats pointed hopefully to sh evidences of party unity to- despite a harsh breach in their thern precincts, while members the Republican national com- tee headed homeward confi- that they can elect their sidential nominee.

he Democrats were cheered by derision of A. F. Whitney, sident of the Brotherhood of lway Trainmen, to go along h the campaign to keep Presi- Truman in the White House. hey were somewhat depressed, vever, although few of them id acknowledge it publicly, by arty "secession" threat from ldng L. Wright, taking office a full term as governor of ssissippi.

Wright declared in his inaugural ress yesterday that the time come for southern Democrats eave a party that insists upon ssing congress to enact "anti- thern" legislation as a per- nent fair employment practices mission, anti-lynch and anti- tax bills and similar pro- als..

While Wright's protest followed ent objections in the senate by ator Eastland (D-Miss) to at Eastland said was a cam- gn to pick Justice William O. uglas for the vice presidential nination, party leaders insisted y are not particularly worried.

GOP Budget Set

hese evidences of Democratic ferences were matched by the publicans, who ended a two-day eting of their national commit- by approving a $4,000,000 dget for their 1948 campaign penditures.

enator Wherry of Nebraska, assistant GOP leader, made it in that all Republicans do not ee on pending issues, particu- y the proposal of Senator nders (Vt) and Rep. Javits (') to set up standby machinery meat rationing.

Wherry departed from the pre- ed text of an address to the mittee yesterday to assert that nders is "a hoarder waiting rationing to come."

lthough Wherry later told a orter he was "only kidding," added that he didn't care if nders took exception to the mark.

landers, who previously had icized Senator Taft (R-Ohio) attacking President Truman's posal for standby price-wage rationing controls, said he n't like Wherry's crack. The mont senator said the Republi- s who heard it might not un- stand the circumstances.

What Happened

hese were, he said, that he ght a single beef to put in l storage to feed the dozen meat rs in his family, including his dren and grandchildren.

he Democrats publicly ignored h these Republican differences l their own woes in Mississippi. they were happy to announce Whitney and his railroad n are back in the fold after nths of bitter recriminations e the dramatic moment when sident Truman appeared be- congress in May, 1946, and ed for power to draft workers the armed forces to prevent reatened railroad strike.

Whitney, who promised undying osition then to Mr. Truman who more recently has had hange of heart, said at a news ference arranged by the Demo- ic national committee that "we t to see the party win in 1948."

John W. Watters Will Head '48 County Red Cross Drive

CHARLTON MYERS
County Chapter Chairman

JOHN W. WATTERS
Campaign Chairman

The 1948 campaign to raise $25,985, Marion county's quota in the annual National Red Cross Fund, will be headed by John W. Watters, Marion attorney, it was announced today by Charlton Myers, chairman of the local chapter.

Serving as a fund planning committee will be R. E. O'Connell, Kenneth Fields, Robert T. Mason, Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer, Mrs. C. W. Smoot and Clarence Shockney. Plans for the campaign, which will be launched here and throughout the nation on March 1, will be completed at a meeting of the chairmen and planning committee in the near future.

National Goal 75 Million

A goal of $75,000,000 has been set for the nation. The amount is approximately $4,000,000 less than the total subscribed in the nationwide campaign last year.

Of the quota to be raised in Marion city and county $14,105, or 54 per cent, will remain here, and $11,880 will be forwarded to the national headquarters.

In announcing the campaign objective the American Red Cross president, Basil O'Connor, calls attention to the magnitude of the organization's service program, which reaches into every community in this country as well as overseas wherever American troops are stationed. Basically, he adds, this program with one exception is identical with the services the American Red Cross provided the nation prior to World War II. In terms of numbers of individuals served, however, it is a much farther reaching program today than it was 10 years ago, which with increased costs necessitates much heavier demands on the organization's resources.

Blood Program Added

The one new activity to be financed through the 1948 fund is the American Red Cross' National Blood Program, which will cost an estimated $10,000,000 during the coming fiscal year. This far-reaching project, under which blood and its derivatives will be supplied eventually to the entire nation without charge for the products, may take five years to become fully operative. It will necessitate substantial funds for technical equipment, continued research and professional staffs, the Red Cross president states. Some 20 or 80 major blood centers are scheduled to open this year and as rapidly as possible other centers will be established, he states.

MISSING CHILD PRODIGY FOUND

14-Year-Old Pianist Is Found with Sailor in Hotel Room.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21 — Jacqueline Horner, 14-year-old Los Angeles piano prodigy and movie actress who had been missing since Jan. 13, was taken into custody here early today, police announced.

The girl, said Inspectors John Merrill and Dan Shelley, was found in a hotel room with a sailor. The youth was jailed on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He is Wallace Wells, 19, attached to the Navy tanker, Cimarron.

Miss Horner was turned over to juvenile authorities as a runaway.

Inspectors Merrill and Shelley said a tavern owner's tip that he believed the missing girl had been in his place several times led to finding her.

Hid In Closet

They said Jacqueline, clad only in a white slip, hid in a closet when they knocked on the hotel room door.

"The door was shut and no one answered," Merrill said. "We turned the knob and the door opened and we walked in. The sailor was sitting there, and then Miss Horner came out.

"At first she was kind of hysterical and pretty mad at being found in the room with the sailor, but then she calmed down and was very cooperative.

"She seemed like a very nice kid. She looks and acts a lot older than her 14 years, though."

The inspectors reported both Jacqueline and Wells said their relations had been purely platonic and offer to submit to medical tests to prove it.

"They seemed like nice kids," Shelley added. "They probably were telling the truth.

Takes Care of Her

"Wells said he met Jacqueline on Market street Friday and had been 'taking care of her' since because she was broke."

In Los Angeles, Mrs. Clara Horner, Jacqueline's divorced mother, collapsed after being informed her daughter had been located. Jacqueline had left home after a family quarrel.

The inspectors said Jacqueline, whose mother had said the girl previously led a very quiet life, had dyed her hair a "reddish blonde" and had it done up "pretty fancy."

She had taken a shower shortly before they found her, the police said, and apparently was "fixing herself up," when they arrived.

"She said she had not been drinking and had done nothing more than just have fun," Merrill added.

Recognizes Picture

The first indication that the missing prodigy was in San Francisco came from a tavern owner who thought he recognized her from a picture after seeing the girl in his place.

Paul Hill, Mrs. Horner's Los Angeles attorney, had expressed belief that the girl had been kidnapped or met with violence. Mrs. Horner however, had asserted the girl left after a "spat."

The search had extended as far as Buffalo, N. Y., where her father George W. Horner, lives. The parents were divorced in 1942.

YOUNG APPEARS IN COURT TODAY

Preliminaries To Arraignment Set This Afternoon.

Edwin D. Young was slated to make his first appearance in common pleas court at 2 p. m. today preliminary to his arraignment on a first degree murder charge in the slaying of Mrs. Zora Gerbes.

He has waited unruffled in his cell at county jail since Monday when he was returned from Colorado. A civil case being tried before Judge Paul D. Smith concluded this morning after a two-day session, delaying the appearance of Young in court.

The hearing is not to be the actual arraignment. Judge Smith merely will ascertain whether or not the accused has legal counsel to advise him.

Arraignment date is expected to be set this afternoon allowing the court appointed counsel a reasonable length of time to confer with Young.

If he should enter a plea of guilty, a tribunal of three judges would hear his case. If the plea is not guilty, Judge Smith will set the trial date and call for a special venire from which to draw the jury.

SAYS U.S. MAY BE ASKED FOR MORE MONEY

Possible Call for Funds To Bolster European Currency Seen by Snyder.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder said today congress may be asked to provide funds to support the value of European moneys. This would be in addition to the billions asked for the Marshall plan.

He did not say how much, but told the house foreign affairs committee that the time will be "possibly" this year and "probably" next.

It will come, he said, when the European countries are showing progress toward steadying their currencies by balancing their budgets, increasing production expanding trade.

The committee is holding hearings on the so-called Marshall plan for four years of general economic aid to 16 western European countries. President Truman has asked $6,800,000,000 to finance the first 15 months of the program.

On the other side of the capitol, the senate foreign relations committee also continued its hearings.

Charles R. Rook, president of the American Rolling Mills company, Middletown, O., told the committee yesterday that Communism will sweep over western Europe if the recovery plan is not approved.

Sees Critical Period

He termed the next 18 months the "critical period," and said that if the European countries were given enough aid, soundly administered, "you'll see a beginning of recovery that will surprise us all."

"There is nothing that we can do to preserve our interests equal to what we can do through this program," he declared.

He estimated that the Marshall plan countries had $4,800,000,000 in dollar assets in this country last June 30, but said some of these assets area already pledged for loans and many others would be "difficult to liquidate."

Snyder suggested that five per cent of the Marshall program funds should be set aside to guarantee private American firms that foreign currencies they earn through investing abroad can be exchanged for U. S. dollars.

James F. O'Neil, commander of the American Legion, told the senate foreign relations committee failure to put the Marshall plan into effect probably would result in Communist control of all Europe.

Ray H. Brannaman, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, declared:

"The domination of Europe by the Kremlin would place the vast resources and peoples of the middle east and africa at the disposal of Red fascism. It would be the realization of the goal for which Germany fought and lost two major wars."

GOP Tax Cut Bill Speeded

Moves Toward House Passage and Virtually Certain Veto.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Approved "as is" by the house Republican leadership, the $5,600,000,000 tax slashing bill moved today toward swift house passage and a virtually certain veto.

Democrats mobilizing to battle the measure claimed enough votes to block its final enactment, however, unless the senate trims the size of the tax cut when the legislation reaches that body.

Speaker Martin (R-Mass) set the house vote for next week, probably Friday.

The house Republican steering committee, in approving the measure late yesterday, refused flatly to make any concessions that might attract Democratic support. A two-thirds majority is needed in both houses to overturn a presidential objection.

Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas told reporters "the bill as it is will never become law, and I think the Republicans know it."

But Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), author of the measure, shot back that Rayburn is "indulging in wishful thinking" and added: "The bill will become law."

The ways and means committee was called into closed door session to consider the Knutson measure. But with Republicans outnumbering Democrats 15 to 10, the committee's formal approval was virtually certain.

Martin told a news conference after the steering committee decision that the Republicans will slash Mr. Truman's $39,700,000,000 budget to make room for the tax cut and a payment on the national debt of at least $2,000,000,000.

"We need to cut the budget only by $1,000,000,000 to do that," Martin said, "but we are going to reduce the budget much more than that."

On the other side of the capitol, however, Democratic Senator Byrd (Va) said "I want to see what the budget cut will be before we make a decision on the tax cut."

Knutson's bill would:

1. Raise individual exemptions by $100, from $500 to $600.

2. Let husbands and wives in all states split the family income for tax reporting purposes, thus holding it within lower tax brackets.

3. Grant percentage cuts, ranging from 30 per cent in the lowest income bracket to 10 per cent in the upper brackets.

Schwab said yesterday that licensees would be required to show that the machines were not gambling devices, but being used for skill only.

1:30 A. M. Warning of Blast Threat Stirs Columbus Area

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—A water service workman turned the wrong valve today, thereby disrupting gas service to a Northside residential area and creating a nine-hour public emergency.

The interruption of gas service precipitated an explosion hazard in an estimated 1,900 homes bounded by Oakland Park avenue, Cooke road, Indianola avenue and the Olentangy River road.

The company announced about 11 a. m. that all the residents had been notified and that danger of explosions was past.

Occupants of an estimated 2,500 homes were urged to turn off their gas furnaces and appliances until further notice.

The affected area included suburban Worthington.

A company spokesman explained that a workman testing the city's water system accidentally closed a gas main valve. This cut off all gas to Worthington and reduced the pressure to approximately 1,000 homes in Columbus.

Gas company officials expressed fear that the low pressure would cause the flame under water tanks and other heaters to go out, and that raw gas would then escape.

The accidental shut-off was discovered about 1:30 a. m. when gauges in the company's Linden station showed a drop in pressure and residents of the affected area began telephoning complaints.

Company and city officials rushed police and fire emergency cars, with sirens and loudspeakers, into the area.

Gas company workers began calling at each home to notify the occupant to turn off his gas appliances.

All Columbus radio stations beginning at 6 a. m., broadcast warnings at 15-minute intervals.

The door of a furnace in one home was reported to have blown open, but no damage was caused.

After each home is checked to make sure all gas valves are shut, the company representatives must return later to notify residents when they can begin using their appliances again.

Company officials estimated it would be nightfall before all this work could be completed.

Outright Purchase of Scioto Tract Here Proposed by Welfare Director.

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21—The state welfare department is considering recommending the outright purchase of 1,243 acres of the Scioto Ordnance Plant to escape an operational agreement with the federal government, it was reported today.

A welfare department official who declined to be quoted said the action might be taken to relieve the state of the stipulation that it operate the property as a training school for juvenile delinquents for 25 years.

He pointed out that there is a greater need now for a new penal institution or an institution for psychopaths.

State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood is considering the appointment of a committee to present the possibility to the next regular session of the state legislature in 1949.

The state could purchase the tract at Marion and 21 buildings for $746,000. Under the present transfer agreement the state will pay $816 administrative cost and may spend up to $1,000,000 over five years to rehabilitate the property.

The state has been planning to use the site to relieve crowding at the boys industrial school at Lancaster but the population at BIS has dropped about 250 to around 750 according to the department figures. Normal population is between 500 and 600.

An appropriation of $100,000 was made by the recent special session of the legislature for rehabilitation at Marion but how fast the state goes ahead with additional work will have to be decided in the future by the lawmakers.

THEFT OF ORNAMENT COSTS PAIR $250

$15 Radiator Emblem Broken from Car Here.

The theft of a valuable radiator ornament from a parked car last night cost two Marion citizens $250 in fines this morning.

Theft of a saddle horse radiator ornament valued at $15 from his car parked on North Main street was reported to police last night by L. M. Wickersham of near Claridon.

Later in the evening police arrested Glenn E. Decker, 22, of 786 Sheridan road, and Mrs. Evelyn Keeran, 18, of 417 Oak street in a downtown restaurant.

Decker was charged with removing parts from an automobile and Mrs. Keeran was charged with receiving and concealing stolen property.

Decker broke the ornament from the Wickersham car and gave it to Mrs. Keeran who hid it in the flush tank of the rest room of the restaurant where the pair were apprehended, police said. Police recovered the ornament.

When arraigned before Judge W. Dexter Hazen the pair pleaded guilty to the charges. Decker was fined $100 and costs while Mrs. Keeran was fined $100 and costs.

13 INJURED AS HUGE AIRCRAFT IS DESTROYED

Lives Saved at Boston Airport by 15-Foot Leap from Burning Plane Into Snowdrifts.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Jan. 21—At least 13 persons were injured when an incoming huge Eastern Airlines Lockheed Constellation skidded on an icy runway into a snowbank and burst into flames at Logan International airport today.

Twenty passengers and five crew members jumped 15 feet through doorways into the safety of drifts as flames destroyed the craft.

The most seriously injured suffered leg and rib fractures. Seven persons were given first aid at the airport while the others were taken to City hospital.

The most seriously injured were: Miss Mildred Jenulis, 33, of New York, an electrologist; Mrs. Dora Block, 33, of Holland, fractured left leg; her husband, Henry, 37; fractured ribs, and Alex Molano, 25, of Bayonne, N. J.

Encounters Bad Weather

Attaches said that the craft was driven to Boston when it ran into foul weather over Newark, N. J., enroute from Miami.

Witnesses reported the ship burned slowly at first, allowing the passengers to get out, and then burst into flame.

Engineer Harold D. Coonley of Miami said the crash was caused by an "icy runway and insufficient braking." A passenger, J. D. Johnson, 50, of Forest Hills, N. Y., said the captain, N. E. Thayer of Miami, "did a marvelous job. We all had ample time to get out."

A 14th person—not a passenger—who ran to aid occupants of the plane, was injured by a police cruising car as it sped to the scene.

Coonley said "there wasn't any panic" but "the fire was right at our backs when the last of us got out."

Pilot Had Tough Time

Coonley continued:

"The passengers weren't paying any attention to the weather but the pilot was sweating out zero visibility and a sort of sleety snow that turned to glare ice when we hit the runway. That's how it happened. There was too much ice on the runway and not enough good braking surface.

"All the pilot could do was try to avoid a bad crash.

"I saw Capt. Thayer cut all his engines. Then there was a flash. Within a matter of seconds the whole plane was on fire.

"It Was a Close One"

"We opened the rear door but the plane was hung at a crazy angle with its bow in the snowbank and its tail about 20 feet above the ice. It was too high for the women to jump out. We shouted to the passengers to come forward and we got them out the door at the left. It was a close one all right."

Capt. Thayer, the pilot, said there was "nothing I could do to halt it" after the plane started skidding.

"Immediately after the impact of landing we heard a crackle of flames," Capt. Thayer said. "Engineer Coonley turned on the fire extinguishers but within 30 seconds flames broke through."

Capt. Thayer said he went back into the plane after a report that one person was still aboard and jumped a second time after making certain the ship was cleared of everyone.

He added: "It was a routine flight and perfect operation until we swerved."

Ohio State Gets First Shipment Of Atomic Isotopes

By The Associated Press

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Jan. 21—First shipments of stable isotopes for use in scientific and medical research left Oak Ridge today, the atomic energy commission announced.

Dr. M. L. Pool of the physics department at Ohio State university is to receive the first batch—isotopes of molybdenum 92, 94 and 98; germanium 70 and 76 and selenium 74 and 76.

They will be bombarded in the cyclotron at Ohio State for studies of nuclear reactions and transmutations the, AEC said.

In contrast to radioactive isotopes, stable isotopes emit no harmful radiations. They are for research use where radioactive isotopes cannot be used because of their radiation and short life.

Isotopes are varying forms of an element, alike in nearly every respect except density and atomic weight.

HOLD FORMER NAZI P.O.W. AT UPPER

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 21—A former prisoner of war, Otto Karl Kreis, from Germany, was held today in the Wyandot county jail here, charged with illegal entry into the United States Sept. 16, 1947. Immigration officials are expected to come here in the near future and custody of the prisoner will be transfered to them.

The young German was called to the Nazi army in 1939. He was captured in Italy in 1944 and brought to Camp Pickett, Virginia, as a POW. Returned to Germany in 1945 he found employment on the Hamburg docks.

Recalling the better living and working conditions he had found in America, even as a prisoner, Kreis stowed away on an America-bound ship Aug. 30, 1947 and arrived at Portland, Me., on Sept. 16.

Slipping off the ship there, the former German soldier hitchhiked to Ohio and found employment at the R. D. Rogers farm northeast of here. Although he spoke broken English and was hard to understand, Kreis proved to be a good worker. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Carl Stansbery and Federal Bureau of Investigation officers.

Planck Resigns Theater Post Here; Reviews 13-Year Record

George E. Planck, associated with Marion theaters for the last 13 years, today announced his resignation as manager of the Palace and Marion motion picture houses, and also as district manager for the Northern Theater corporation with show houses in Marion, Fremont, Bellevue and Clyde. The resignation will become effective as soon as his successor is named, Mr. Planck said.

Mr. Planck has been associated with the show business for 20 years and expresses regret at severing the connection. However he has plans of his own he wishes to carry out, he states.

GEORGE E. PLANCK

Previous Theater Experience

Coming here from State College, Pa., where Penn State college is located, he was the manager of two theaters in that city for two years and before that was with the home office of Paramount Pictures, Inc., in New York City for seven years.

Active in civic affairs here he has opened the Palace for the presentation of community activities on many occasions. In addition to providing entertainment in the picture field he brought many stars of the legitimate stage here as well as well-known stage plays. As a member and past president of the Rotary club Mr. Planck each year entertained the children of the crippled children's school with a party at the theater.

Mr. Planck takes justifiable pride in his managerial association with local theaters and has seen a number of worthwhile developments in the field of pictures and patron service. The Palace, he recalls, was among the first and is still one of the few theaters to install equipment for the hard of hearing. Nearly 10 years ago air-conditioning was installed and modernized sound and projection equipment, he points out, is second to none.

Notable Stage Shows

Today Mr. Planck recalled some of the highlights of his years at the Palace, as follows:

"Stage shows have been a particular source of pleasure—bringing to Marion attractions usually only seen in the larger cities," he states: "During my time here we've had Ethel Barrymore in 'The Constant Wife,' 'Life With Father,' 'Dear Ruth,' 'Tobacco Road,' 'Yes, My Darling Daughter,' 'Blossom Time,' the Pulitzer prize winning play, 'You Can't Take It With You'—and over 50 variety or vaudeville shows, a type of show that has become almost extinct.

"Then there have been band shows and what a list that comprises! Duke Ellington, Ted Lewis, Abe Lyman and his Californians, Bob Crosby, Shep Fields, Charlie Spivak, Dick Stabile, Bob Strong, Barney Rapp, Tommy Tucker, Clyde McCoy, Glen Gray and the Casa Loma orchestra, Woody Herman, Tony Pastor, Johnny Long, Little Jack Little, Clyde Lucas, Russ Morgan, Milt Britton, Red Norvo, Frankie Masters, Elliott Lawrence, Gene Krupa Ina Ray Hutton, Herbie Key, Saxie Dowell, Bernie Cummins, Russ Carlyle, Bob Chester, George Olsen, Don Bestor, Blue Barron—and many of this number have appeared two and three times.

"Among the variety shows, I liked best, 'The Gay Nineties Revue,'—but Benny Baker in 'College Rhythm.' Armida in 'Flying Down to Rio,' the Harmonica Rascals, the Inkspots, Count Bernevici, Stepin Fetchit and the Erskine Hawkins band scored great hits, too. And I believe the house record still is held by—but you'll never guess—Lum and Abner, in one of the first dates of their long and successful in person tour.

"There was lots of work but lots of pleasure and experience, too, in the Bond Shows held during the war. Remember when we had Walter Brennan, Jeanne Crain, June Haver, Ward Bond and Charles Dingle on the stage helping us sell War Bonds?

"Then just recently I got a tremendous bang out of George Bird and his Musical Majorettes. I think Marion did, too, judging from their reception.

"And while we're talking about stage shows, we can't overlook the Harding Quiver Revue, the senior plays and the Community Concert association presentations.

"One stage show I'll always remember was Blen Blue in 'George White's Scandals.' It wasn't the show itself, but the fact I had to stay up practically all night bowling with Ben Blue. Ben imagined himself quite a kegler—and we did have a great time."

"Wee Bonnie Baker, Mischa Auer, Zasu Pitts and Evelyn Brent were also among the celebrities who made personals in various variety revues. Then there were sundry and assorted spook shows, magic and mind reading acts, barn dance revues and Sally Rand, bubbles and all.

"Marion has been an appreciative show town and it's been great serving them through the medium of the theater."

Ten Turn Out Here For Camera Meeting

At a meeting preliminary to the organization of a camera club here, held at the Y.M.C.A. Monday night, ten persons were present, representing both members of the camera club which was in existance in Marion previous to the war, and others who are interested in establishing a new club. It was agreed that a camera club would definitely be of interest to a number of Marion people, and organization date was set as next Monday night at the Y.

Those present were urged to bring friends interested in photography, and members of the former club were asked to bring to the next meeting any of their salon prints for exhibition to add to the interest of the session. The meeting was called by Robert Slatzer of Oak street who has done considerable photographic work, including photographs for a campus picture magazine of Ohio State university.

Present Scout Charter At New Bloomington

Annual presentation of the charter to Boy Scout Troop No. 49 of New Bloomington took place Sunday morning at a service of worship of the New Bloomington Methodist church. Mowry, Scoutmaster of the troop. Other members of the Scout committee, Howard Sharp, Albert Oberdier, Rev. W. S. Dibert, pastor, and Rev. Millard L. Shuck, assistant Scoutmaster, also gave short talks.

Special music was by Joanne and Dorothy Drake and Margaret and Martha Mowry. An outline was given concerning the troop's project of aiding with a fund drive for a new camp for Methodist youth groups of the Lima district of which the New Bloomington fellowship is a part. A scrap drive and paper drive will be conducted by the troop, with a goal of $100 set, and the troop will cooperate with a window display project on Scouting in Marion which will be a part of observance of Boy Scout week.

dict that congress will continue controls after Feb. 29 in one form or another.

There are a couple of good reasons for thinking so:

James Marlow

1. This is an election year.

2. Rents, under the present law, already have gone up. There's bad inflation in this country now. Many landlords are a cinch to boost rents if congress lets the controls die Feb. 29.

That would just kick the cost of living so much higher.

Since this is an election year the voters are likely to take it out on the political party they blame for adding to their living costs.

President Truman has told the Republican-controlled congress rent controls should be continued. Now it's up to the Republicans.

If they let controls die and rents shoot up before election day, Mr. Truman then can tell the voters:

"I told the Republicans we needed to keep controls but they wouldn't listen to me."

Two Republican senators, Ives of New York and Baldwin of Connecticut, have put a bill in congress to keep controls until June 30, 1949.

RENTS ALREADY HAVE gone up for a great many people because of the rent control law which congress passed last summer.

This law said landlords—by letting a tenant sign a lease for a year or more—could boost his rent as much as 15 per cent, if the tenant was willing. Why should he be willing?

Two reasons:

1. He might be afraid congress would let controls end Feb. 29 and then the landlord could raise his rent any amount.

2. By signing for a 15 per cent boost, he protected himself against a raise of more than that for at least a year if controls did end Feb. 29.

(The signing had to be done before Dec. 31, 1947.)

Government figures show, as of last Nov. 28, the tenants of 1,456,113 rented dwellings had signed leases that meant a 15 per cent raise.

THE SAME FIGURES—they're from the rent administrator's office—indicate the tenants of 14,000,000 rented homes have not signed leases.

But what kind of rent control law will congress pass, if it passes one? It's too soon to say. The air is full of congressmen's ideas on this right now.

Because many landlords have suffered hardship under rent control, congress may pass a law to allow them to raise rents a bit generally.

Or, congress may find some other way to give landlords a break while keeping controls after Feb. 29.

GALION ROTARY HEAR MARSHALL PLAN TALK

Special to The Star

GALION—In a talk on "Community Service," Rev. Norman Riedesel, pastor of First Presbyterian church, spoke in behalf of legislation now pending in regard to Displaced Persons, and also in favor of the Marshall Plan, when he was guest speaker at the dinner-meeting of the Rotary club, Monday at Hotel Talbott.

"With the speed of modern communications and transportation, Community Service now means world service," Rev. Riedesel said. He recommended three things to consider in such a service: (1), ourselves; (2), to overcome evil with good; (3), to return good for evil.

"By means of constructive good deeds, we can help to bind up the wounds of the world," Rev. Riedesel advised.

Speaking in behalf of the legislation for Displaced Persons, and in favor of the Marshall Plan, Rev. Riedesel said that history shows that whenever a people has entered into a great constructive plan to help other peoples that the country doing this work always has received a great benefit. The speaker said that from a selfish viewpoint, the Marshall plan would stimulate prosperity here.

Rev. Riedesel was presented by the program chairman, William Bradfield. A Valentine party to be held at the Greenlawn, Feb. 9, when the ladies will be guests of the Rotary club, was announced by Bradfield.

Mr. G. Thompson was a guest of the club.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

WASHINGTON

TAXI drivers earn their tips in Los Angeles by courtesy—in Manhattan by hypnotizing you out of your loose change by shame or wisecracks.

But here in the nation's capital, the cab jockeys are plain polite and philosophic by nature, figuring tips will come only by act of congress—and then only after the customer has appealed twice to the supreme court.

The Washington taxi driver is a freer man with an opinion than the average legislator. He has views on every subject—the inside of the inside—but unlike the New York cabby, he won't switch his views just to please the human cargo who is paying the fare.

Hal Boyle

His forum is the highway, his rostrum the front seat of his cab, which he probably owns himself — and that makes him a small businessman and therefore gives him the right to say how the country should be run.

Ask him to take it easy at the wheel, and he's off.

"I'm in no hurry either. Don't worry about me hitting any pedestrians. Can't afford to any more. The repair costs to the cars run too high nowadays. It's $100 now where it used to be $18.

"Kinda new here aren't you? I been here most my life. It's a swell city, but I never saw one like it for middle-aged women getting tanked. Darn near every night gotta drive some ginned-up woman home.

"Had one in the car the other night and she started in complaining about her husband. They all want to tell you their life story. This one had two kids she oughta been home minding and here she's been out touring the beer joints with a bold-headed, pot-bellied buzzard with a face like a hoptoad. He was more romantic, she said, than her husband—all he did was bring home his paycheck. And she kept saying, 'Well, what'd you do if you were me?'

"I TOLD HER, 'LADY, I don't know what I'd do if I was you, but I know what I'd do if I was your husband. I'd just plain kick you out the house and down the front porch, a step at a time.'

"She shut up then, and when I drove up to her house I was so mad I socked an extra $1.50 on the bill. She didn't holler—just gave me a four-bit tip.

"Tips? You'd think with all these high-priced people around here they'd hand out a little money. But you're lucky if you get a dime from these ten-to-fifteen thousand-dollar men.

"Senators — they hand me a laugh, but that's about all. Once one of them tipped me a nickel. However, I took another one home once—pretty good old guy, he was—and he said, 'you have to get my car home, too, I've drunk too much to drive.' So I got a friend and we drove his car home, and the senator slipped me ten bucks and winked and said, 'now my wife will think I'm all right when she sees the car's home.'

"FUNNY THING ABOUT the presidents. Most of them do get uppity. But you take Woodrow Wilson. People say he was a cold man. But I saw him at a theater and walked right up and spoke to him. He was real pleasant. A fine man.

"So was Teddy Roosevelt. I saw him whale his two youngest boys right on the White House lawn. Sent another man to fetch them in to dinner, and they sassed him. So Teddy came out himself with a stick and gave it to them good right there on the lawn. They went in a-hopping.

"Never saw Franklin D. Roosevelt except when he was here way back in the First World War. Right nice young fellow then.

"Still and all, you take presidents generally. I don't understand it. But with most them soon's they get to be president right away they begin to think they're a big shot."

It's hard to say just what it takes to be a hero to a taxi driver in Washington.

Rinehart, foreman of the tool room.

Two Important Phases

The cover of "The News" shows two machines symboli. of important stages in the development of the Huber "line." The machines are the original-type Maintainer, built in 1920, and the streamlined, widely-used maintainer of 1948.

Founder of the Huber Co. was Edward Huber, who, the magazine says, came to Marion from Dearborn County, Ind., as a young man and convinced men with capital that the revolving hay rake he had perfected in his father's blacksmith shop was a valuable invention that should be marketed. With Lewis Gunn, he founded a partnership in November, 1863, and thus began the history of the industry that today is world renowned in the road machinery and maintenance field.

In 1874, 11 years after the founding, the Huber company was incorporated to operate a foundry and manufacture steam engines and boilers, the revolving hay rake and other farm equipment. In that 11 years, Mr Huber had invented a steam farm engine and a grain thresher.

Gas Tractor Pioneer

Mr Huber, who died in 1904, a month before his sixty-seventh birthday, is generally credited with being first to put gas tractor production on a commercial basis, the article states In 1894, the company began production of the Huber gasoline traction engine which was the forerunner of today's far-flung tractor industry.

Huber made its first advent into the horse and export road machinery field with the introduction of the steam roller in 1908, introduced in 1920 the one-man-operated Huber maintainer, and then in 1923 introduced to the industry Huber's automatic type motor roller.

The pilot model of the Huber automotive type motor roller, which revolutionized the road machinery industry 25 years ago—Old No. 1—is still in use. After operating almost a quarter of a century in the United States, it was sold recently to a contractor in Cuba. A picture of this pilot model appears in the magazine.

First Factory Picture

Also in the magazine are pictures of Mr. Huber, the founder, the building which housed the Huber business in its early days located at the northeast corner of State and Mill street, which now houses the Houghton Sulk Co., one of Huber's modern rollers, the 5-S ton model, and an action picture of a hard-working Huber bulldozer.

Plain Talk from a Senator

THE congressional joint committee on housing asked Senator Flanders of New Hampshire to summarize the cause and cure of the nation's housing troubles. The senator came through with a masterful nutshell summation of the problem.

"For half a century the housing industry has provided barely enough new homes to accommodate our population increase. It has failed to replace depreciation and protect our capital investment," his report says. "If Detroit built automobiles the way homes are built, most of us could afford neither cars nor houses.

"Almost all home builders are inefficient, small-scale productive units which would fail completely in any other important industry. The whole industry operates on a limitation-of-output rather than an expansionist theory, with poor management, inefficient labor and high material costs each feeding on the others."

"Government subsidies to perpetuate inefficient building methods won't solve the housing problem," Senator Flanders says. "The only real solution is for all to face the task of modernization and expansion for mass production. Government aid to industry should be given with that in view."

Next to inflation, housing is the greatest national problem, and it is part of the inflation problem. But while the cure for inflation is debatable, the cause and cure of the housing shortage has been stated concisely and irrefutably. The next step is action.

An American Problem

A REPORT prepared by a committee of 20 prominent Americans, under auspices of the National Council Against Conscription, denounces the growth of military influence in the government. Titled "The Militarization of America," the report says the present trend toward military control over American life and institutions should be of deepest concern to every American.

The influence of the Army and Navy in diplomacy, science, education and industry is denounced, as is universal military training and the pressure tactics of the military in getting its ideas across. The members say they are not necessarily opposed to each and every activity they describe but that "what might be approved or overlooked as an isolated activity cannot be ignored when seen as part of a basically dangerous pattern."

Especially thought-provoking is the committee's account of the infiltration of the military into the upper levels of government. Woodrow Wilson has said that with a powerful military hierarchy in the saddle, elections are of minor importance because it determines political policy, and back of that policy is the constant pressure of men trained to arms wondering if they are never to be allowed to use their education and skill.

The committee has done a service in calling attention to what it sees as a dangerous situation. It has pointed out an American problem: to maintain a sufficiently strong military arm in such times as these, while not yielding to it power like that once held by the Prussian junkers and the Japanese militarists.

And It Grew and Grew

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR KRUG has pointed to a significant twist in the problem of shortages. At a recent conference of fuel coordinators, he told them that the shortage in their field hasn't been caused by any neglect of supply but by an unexpected increase in use.

Krug predicts a serious gasoline shortage next summer for the same reason. He thinks farmers will be hard pressed for enough fuel to handle the 1948 harvest and wants a hard-hitting campaign of conservation. As far as fuel oil is concerned, he sees no relief for at least four years. Gasoline and gas also will be chronically short—because of increased use. Supply simply cannot catch up to accelerating demand.

This is the same thing that has happened to the meat supply. There is no shortage of meat on a basis of meat consumption per capita before the war. There is an acute shortage in sight, however, on a basis of consumption per capita now. The same is true of many other things. In only a few places have producers anticipated the effects of an increasing population and a rising standard of living.

Consumption possibilities have been slighted in most estimates of production. Producers as a whole have been like the military experts who always get ready for the next war on the basis of what actually happened in the last war; they have prepared to satisfy postwar demand with the production of a former period. They are producing as much or perhaps more than they ever produced before, but consumers are demanding still more.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Right To Own Ideas Still Prevails in U. S.

IT GOES to show what's wrong with the liberal mind. The Brooklyn Women's Republican club had invited Merwin K. Hart, president of the national economic council, to deliver an address. Hart is called a Fascist by Communists and others because he is favorably disposed to Franco and because he supports capitalism for the United States, as does the Republican party. And because he is called a Fascist, by association he is made out to be an anti-Semite. Also, he is anti-Zionist.

SOKOLSKY

So whenever Hart wants to make a speech, or whenever he advocates some idea, sound or stupid, wise or foolish—and it is an American right to advocate ideas—the Communists, Progressives, Liberals and their innocent dupes shiver and shake in rage. They resort to intimidation. They threaten the sponsors of such meetings. They threaten boycotts and all sorts of evil happenings.

Therefore, John R. Crews, the Republican leader of Brooklyn, ordered the good ladies of the aforesaid club not to permit Hart to speak. Now Hart happens to be a Republican, had been a member of the state legislature. I know him, we having been born in the same town, Utica, N. Y.

Not a Fascist

Hart is not a Fascist nor is he an anti-Semite. He only prefers Franco to Stalin. I do not prefer either nor do I believe that it is any of my business who governs any foreign country. If the Spaniards stand for Franco and the Russians like Stalin, that is their affair. I prefer either Taft or Dewey for president and do not want either Eisenhower or MacArthur. That is as far as I am willing to go.

Crews makes the point: "I have stopped Communist speakers in the past and I will continue to oppose Fascist, Communist and other subversive speakers in the future."

This is not altogether true. But Crews means well. He has, on several occasions, formed political alliances with the American labor party, which is probably a Communist political arm. I suppose his defense is that the wants to elect his candidates in a fuzzy district. Crews also said:

"I don't know much about him (Hart) but from what I've heard, he is of the extreme right and we are highly unsympathetic toward him."

Anyhow, that is Crew's story. It appears also that a Judge Benjamin became furious that Hart was to speak to his ladies, so he jumped all over the sweet lady who runs this show. She and I discussed it and I told her that in my opinion she would be smart to have Hart and Benjamin speak at the same time. According to her, the judge would not speak unless he was the only speaker, which is a judicial prerogative, some judges speaking only to themselves.

He Comes Anyway

So Hart was told on the morning of the meeting not to come. He came. The meeting was adjourned. The ladies remained in their seats. Hart was informally introduced and he made a speech, criticizing the Democrats and Palestine partition. The whole business amounted to nothing except as an example of prevention of free speech by intimidation.

Hart issues a newsletter and in the most recent one he suggested that the people arm against revolution, personally, I prefer the FBI, the police, the Army and the Navy. Private citizens with guns sometimes let them go off at the wrong time.

The suggestion struck me as hysterical, but I still think that the hysterical fellow has a right to state his hysteria if he stays within the law.

However, the great liberals felt differently. To them, Hart was organizing a citizens' army to murder them. I fear that they must have been up to something dreadful if they are so afraid of Hart. Honest and healthy people do not scare so easily.

The upshot of it all is that one member resignd from Hart's board and Brooklyn has some excitement in an off season. It is no more possible to kill off Hart than it is to kill off Marcantonio by this type of intimidation. The glory of this country is that anybody can hurl ideas at the American people—good ones and foul ones. As, for instance, Henry Wallace. Nobody minds.

Balance It? They Can't Even Lift It!

The proposed federal budget weighs six and three-quarters pounds.

No wonder Republicans are finding it difficult to swallow.

It's history's biggest peacetime budget, physically as well as fiscally. Thick as a Russian innuendo, it's packed with more big figures than a corset catalog.

It contains 1,536 pages and explains not only where the money goes, but also why there's a paper shortage.

It appreciates money at the rate of more than 25 million dollars a page and is so complicated out the economy wave, told his notes.

Of course, insofar as the average citizen is concerned, it was gotten up not to be understood . . . but underwritten.

Religious Education

By Raymond Moley

BALDWIN-WALLACE college at Berea, O., is an institution whose antecedents and control relate to the Methodist church. Both of the colleges which were merged into the present school were founded by people who earnestly believed in education in the Methodist religion. Its support has mainly come from donors who believe in Methodism.

In line with this purpose, the college offers a required course in religion, and attendance at chapel is required. Over the years, Baldwin-Wallace has warmly welcomed students of all religious backgrounds. Those students, as far as can be ascertained, have never complained until this year about the religious aspects of the curriculum.

MOLEY

Baldwin-Wallace has recently broken into the news because the chancellor of the Roman Catholic diocese of Cleveland has answered an inquiry of a student by saying that Catholics "may not under any circumstances or pretext attend a class" of the kind given at the college. The basis of this opinion is the code of canon law and the opinion of moral theologians. As a result of this opinion, a great proportion of the 163 Catholic students are leaving the college and will presumably transfer to Catholic institutions.

The college authorities have announced that there will be no change in the requirement of the course.

It is not a controversy. It is simply an expression of the right of a religious institution to teach religion and the right of a student to leave the college. But the situation suggests a far greater issue in the foreseeable future.

Taxes Hamper Donors

High taxes and the war have not only gravely reduced the capacity of private donors to support colleges of their choice, but have provided reasons for heavy government support for sectarian colleges. The GI bill of rights has been the culmination of the use of government money for colleges.

Sooner or later, the issue will rise as to whether a sectarian college will lose its right to teach what it chooses because it receives money collected by taxes from people of all religions. The pressure thus generated may well reduce the pitifully meager amount of religious education now given in colleges. That this will be unfortunate can hardly be debated. Methodists and Catholics alike realize the danger.

The unfortunate nature of this threat to religious education is sharpened by the character of much of the secular teaching now given. I once heard a distinguished teacher of philosophy say to the faculty of an immense institution that the purpose of his courses was to raise doubts in the minds of his students about their early religious beliefs.

Consider the Future

Consider, therefore, what might come from another war, another rise in taxes and another GI Bill. Or consider what a continuous $40,000,000,000 budget will do.

This is only one way to illustrate the grave danger to all freedoms in a super government, in vast public spending and in greater and greater burdens of taxes. Those who advocate more and more government services often do so in the names of "democracy" and "freedom." They would "channel" all wealth through government.

They never seem to realize that at the end of that road is neither democracy nor freedom. It is a place where there may be abstract freedom of choice, but no range of choice—no initiative, no variety, no spiritual adventure. It is a desert of dead uniformity.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The GOP meeting in Philadelphia ran out of hotel rooms and tickets . . . Fortunately the supply of candidates is holding out.

At the June convention each state will have four delegates-at-large . . . Each state now has four candidates-at-large.

And states that elected a Republican senator get a bonus of three delegates . . . I hear Taft is saying, "Now I can prove I'm worth three other men at the convention."

Also each state voted Republican in 1944 gets a bonus of three delegates. The quiz question this year will be "you now have three bonus dedegates . . . Would you like to try for six?"

300 Democrats in the gallery on spectators' tickets will scream "You'll be sorrrrrree!"

But it's a great race . . . At the first turn the black horses are leading the white horses.

Much Too Fat for Him

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Jan. 21, 1938.

An amazing story of kidnapings, slayings and bank robberies attributed to Peter Anders, former lumberjack, was related after the recovery of the bodies of Charles S. Ross, abducted Chicago manufacturer, and James Atwood Gray, from a cave deep in northern Wisconsin woods.

Formal announcement of the sale of Gordon Mann, ace of the pitching staff of Marion's Ohio State league baseball team, to the San Francisco Seals was made by Walter Mails, manager of the West Coast team.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Axthelm of Elm street.

Safety was the keynote of a discussion meeting held by the Huber Mfg. Company's Foremen's club. H. C. Ehrick, production manager and president of the Marion Industrial Safety council, presided. Talks were given by Mr. Ehrick, D. A. Howard, secretary-treasurer of the Huber Co., A. J. Tower, Paul B. Bigley, Howard L. Hare, A. Armbruster and D. J. Murray.

"Inside Nazi Germany," a March of Time film which had raised a storm of controversy and had been banned in some cities and by at least one theater chain, was to be shown at the Palace the following Jan. 30 and Feb. 1.

Daniel Jones, 84, Radnor's mail messenger for more than 40 years died at his home in that village.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Jan. 21, 1928.

All records for a single day's tax collection in Marion county were broken when payments at the office of County Treasurer James E. Messenger totalled $143,529. This was due to the fact that the day's receipts included payments from four of the county's largest taxpayers, the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and the Erie, Hocking Valley and Pennsylvania railroad companies.

A huge steam shovel, the largest ever manufactured, which had been completed by the Marion Steam Shovel Co., was the subject of a descriptive radio broadcast from the General Electric station WGY, Schenectady, N. Y. and also of an illustrated news story in the New York Times.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Dwyer returned to her home in Cleveland after having been called here by the death of a relative, James Dwyer.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jamison entertained the Five-Hundred Card club at their home on Davids street.

Miss Lucille Barnhart was hostess to young women employes of the Erie Railroad Co. office at a dinner and bridge party at her home south of Marion.

The Springfield High school basketball team defeated Harding High school 29 to 19. McInich pitched three field baskets for Marion and Gillis, Cram and Evans one each.

Where Inflation Begins

From The Guaranty Survey.

This is a condensed report of sections discussing money and credit taken from an article on inflationary federal policies. The Guaranty Survey is a monthly publication of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

THERE seems to be increasing recognition of the fact that the basic causes of inflation are monetary and arise largely from the fiscal policies followed by the federal government for nearly two decades. For many years before the war the government tried strenuously to bring about the very inflation it is now attempting to combat.

The national economy is experiencing the cumulative effects of 16 consecutive years of deficit financing, which has been largely instrumental in bringing about a fourfold increase in the money supply.

In the present instance, a vigorous prosecution of anti-inflationary policies would run the risk not only of precipitating depression but also of disturbing the market for government securities, which has become a major part of the nation's financial structure.

Insufficient attention has been given to the numerous phases of existing government policy that tend to intensify the upward pressure on prices. In the field of fiscal policy, the federal administration, while opposing tax reduction on the ground that such an action would be inflationary, is spending money at the rate of 37 billion annually. A reduction of expenditures to, say, 31 billion annually would double the surplus, or, as a possible alternative, would permit tax reduction of 6 billion and still leave an equal amount available for retirement of debt. The present level of expenditure is equal to more than four times the highest yearly outlay during the prewar depression.

Section 102 of the federal tax law has been administered in such a way as to lead some companies to distribute more of their earnings to shareholders than they believe desirable for fear of incurring severe tax penalties.

The government is concerned over expansion of bank credit. Yet its own corporations and other credit agencies, according to latest official reports, had approximately 7.8 billion of loans outstanding on March 31 of 1947, of which more than 2 billion had been added during the 12 months ended on that date.

The question of direct credit regulation is a delicate one. The obstacles to effective regulation, however, seem to lie in the nature of the present situation rather than in the lack of sufficient regulatory powers. The central banking authorities who ask for broader powers already have far more than they can safely use.

Federal Reserve bank holdings of government securities have declined only about 2 billion from the peak a year ago, and now stand at 22 billion, with excess reserves of member banks estimated at more than 1 billion. The discount rates of the Federal Reserve banks are uniform at 1 per cent and have not been changed in nearly six years. The reserve requirement for member banks in central reserve cities has remained for more than five years at 20 per cent, as against a legal maximum of 26 per cent. It could be very helpful if these and perhaps other lines of governmental policy were subjected to closer scrutiny in the search for anti-inflationary remedies.

Advanced Math

A university of Rochester mathematician estimates that the eggs 140,000,000 Americans are asked not to eat on eggless Thursday cost them 6 cents each.

The conclusion, arrived at by Professor Charles W. Watkeys, was given in a letter to Representative Kenneth B. Keating, Republican, of New York, who placed the letter in the Congressional Record. It read:

"Suppose each one of the 140,000,000 inhabitants of the United States skipped an egg on eggless Thursday . . . Dividing by 12 this will give approximately 11,000,000 dozen eggs. The hens will not listen if we tell them not to lay the Thursday eggs.

"The eggs cannot be placed on sale on another day without reducing the price, so our government has to buy these eggs at the market price or say 70 cents a dozen (to be conservative).

"This makes $7,700,000 that must be taken from the tax pile for the Thursday eggs, each Thursday.

Dividing $7,700,000 by 140,000,000 gives 6 cents as the amount that each inhabitant, on the average, gives to the government for the privilege of skipping an egg on Thursday.

"If we go to the grocery store and buy an egg to eat, it will cost us 6 cents. So, whether we eat the egg or do not eat the egg, it will cost 6 cents."

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Pressed Duck

"YOU should try a pressed duck," a friend had advised. We had always preferred our ducks unpressed and baggy around the knees. The last thing we wanted pressed was a waterfowl. But after years we yielded. We will never forget it.

Two waiters came on showing what looked like an operating table, except that there were more instruments on it. We observed an alcohol stove, a bottle of brandy, three lemon halves, various shakers and condiment bottles, several small glasses, a rare collection of dishes, knives, forks and spoons and on one end, something that looked like a counterfeit money printing press.

A headwaiter then appeared and took up a position with the authority of a head surgeon in an experimental clinic. Then a waiter hove into view with something on a platter. It was egg-shaped and quite brown. It appeared to have been sandpapered by a precisionist cabinet maker and glazed well.

This was the duck. It depressed us. We had never seen a duck that looked so non-acquatic. But this was only the beginning. Although we didn't know it at the moment, the duck at this stage was comparatively in perfect shape.

With three waiters in attendance, the head waiter smiled ghoulishly and began slicing the bird in swift strokes. In the meantime one of the waiters had lighted the little stove. Now the head man of the ceremonial placed the choice meat on a plate for a moment and gave a signal. Instantly a tall waiter took his post at the counterfeit money apparatus while a short waiter took what was left of the duck and stuffed it into this gadget.

Then it dawned on us. This was the duck press.

With an expression we had seen on illustrations of the Spanish Inquisition, the tall waiter began turning the wheel of the press, crushing the duck with might and main. (It was obvious that this duck was not going to escape.)

From the bottom of the press came the liquified waterfowl. This was quickly gathered and poured into the flaming pan. Liquors, salts, peppers, &c., were added as the headwaiter stirred furiously.

By this time the routine of a dinner had become an M.G.M. production. Other diners, satisfied with mere lamb chops, became second runs on the tailend of a double feature offering.

We couldn't take our eye from the press and the waiter officiating on the business end of it. Ever a Walt Disney fan, we felt that a terrific squawk would come from the press any minute and an outraged Donald Duck emerge, battered but violent. There was not a sound. Nary a squawk. Now we fully understand the expression "He's a dead duck."

Everybody else stopped eating and was watching pop-eyed. The dinner at that point seemed as big an attraction as "Oklahoma." I wondered how the head waiter would know the pressed duck was ready. Suddenly there was a clear signal. The waiter turning the wheel of the press collapsed from exhaustion!

Instantly the duck was served. With something called wild rice. The rice seemed calm enough. We figured the duck was the one with reason to be wild. (It was good if you don't care for hamburger and have never felt kindly toward birds or Donald.)

John Crosby clears up the story of the Whiffenpoof song nicely. He points out that the idea was taken from Kipling's "Gentlemen Rankers," that Meade Minnegerode and George Pomeroy wrote the Whiffenpoof words for it at Mory's Temple Bar in 1909 and adds "The words Temple Bar refer to the Whiffenpoof insignia which bears a very slight resemblance to the griffon on the Temple Bar monument in the Strand in London."

Maybe so, but Mory's when run at the time by Louis Linder was in Temple street, New Haven, corner of Center, hard by Ed Malley's place, and was always known locally as the Temple Bar for that reason.

Throwing a Rug

By TRUMAN TWILL

Small odds and ends of carpet lying about the house are called throw rugs. This is because they throw you. Most of them are manufactured in a secret plant by an alliance of manufacturers of liniment, traction splints, pain killers and collapsible stretchers. The same crowd is back of the waxed-floor movement and also makes the books needed in the production of hooked rugs by people with nothing better to do. Most hooked rugs end up as throw rugs and are highly valued as silent killers.

The origin of throw rugs is obscure. But there is evidence they were first used by the cult of Assassins in India, who made a specialty of doing away with unsuspecting persons. They were introduced into America early in the game and caught on like wildfire because a pioneer woman tired of her husband could make a throw rug herself and never even be charged with manslaughter.

Sometimes by accident, sometimes by design throw rugs were placed where they would do the most good—just inside doors, to trip strangers coming in from the outside, also papa when he came home from work too tired to lift his feet at the foot of the staircase—a dandy place—and so on. A refinement was added when rag rugs were introduced, because they wadded up easily and were more certain to snare the feet of careless victims.

Throw rugs also were placed in dark upstairs halls, on landings, in bedrooms, bathrooms and so on—all places shrewdly calculated to catch the victim with his guard down and hurl him to the floor, perhaps hitting his head on the rim of a bathtub, the edge of the bed, or going end over end to the bottom of the stairs. Statistics aren't available, but it is estimated that 65 per cent of the accidents happening in the home—the most dangerous place—can be traced to throw rugs.

But there is good news. An oft-wounded veteran of the war with throw rugs is starting a movement to do something about them. The movement is going to take advantage of what might be a misunderstanding about the name of the things. He is going to pretend he doesn't know what a throw rug is and assume it means a rug to throw. This will make it possible for him to throw all he can find into the nearest fireplace.

He can't make a dent on throw rugs without help. He wants 10,000,000 volunteers—earnest citizens who will be willing to work with him without hope of pay or glory. Their reward will be the knowledge they have done something tangible for the human race. They will be criticized, some may be thrown in jail. They will not get invited to the places where they have thrown rugs. But history will credit them with one of the finest movements ever started against hopeless odds. Forward, liberators—and watch that throw rug. It's a killer.

During World War II when submarines were menacing Atlantic and Caribbean shipping lanes, 1,442,868 tons of sugar were ferried from Havana to Miami (213 miles).

IFLATION SPIRAL HITS WELFARE DEPT.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—The ...e welfare department today ...d itself trapped in the infla... spiral in efforts to provide ... cost housing for physicians ...ployed at state institutions.

...ff ials said they would re... ...e too high, bids received ...terday on a project for build... three houses at Massillon ...e hospital.

The department had advertised ... bids on three prefabricated, ...e room single houses of Cape ...d design, as a "trial balloon" ... determine whether it could ...ass a $700,000 appropriation ...r about 56 units to shelter ...e physicians.

No bids were submitted on pre... units. Only one bid was of... on the general contract for ...nstruction of three frame ...ses. Low bids on construction ... three frame houses totaled $57,515, without heating facilities.

The bids reflected a big jump in construction costs since last April, when the welfare department rejected bids on construction of three brick duplexes. Bids for frame construction amounted to more than $19,000 per unit compared with $14,718 per unit for brick construction.

The department now is considering the feasibility of having the state purchase prefab units from the manufacturers and employing state maintenance crews to erect them.

If the Massillon project bids had been satisfactory, the welfare department intended to proceed with plans for construction of two prefab units at Cleveland state hospital.

The housing bottleneck has been a major obstacle in the department's program to obtain permanent physicians for state hospitals and schools treating mental patients.

It is estimated that 6,640,000 acres of French land were made unfit for cultivation by World War II operations.

Blames Food Prices On Buying by Gov't.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—Congressman August H. Andresen of Minnesota believes high food prices are a direct result of government buying.

Andresen, Republican chairman of a house select committee investigating commodity transactions, in a speech before the Ohio Bakers association yesterday charged the government purchased 19,000,000 bushels of wheat, Jan. 20, 1947, when the price was $2.08 a bushel, and six weeks later the price went to $3.05.

If the government had proceeded "in an orderly manner buying in smaller quantities over a longer period of time, we wouldn't have had these difficulties," he continued.

Mayor at Crestline Appoints Councilman

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, Jan. 21—Mayor A. P. Sonner appointed Harvey Whipple, Democrat, to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Grover Weis as a member of council at a meeting Monday. At the November election Weis was elected to council and to the board of trustees, making it necessary to resign one position.

A letter was read from the clerk of Tiro council requesting an exchange of fire service with Crestline if needed.

A representative from North Robinson was present in regard to fire protection in the west side of North Robinson; the east side is in Jefferson township and protected by Crestline in case of fire. Council voted to give them protection at the rate $200 for the first four trips and $75 for each additional trip.

The wage rate of city employes was discussed and arrangements made for a special meeting to be held Friday night.

Fire Pension Board Seats New Member

Members of the firemen's pension board, meeting Monday night in the Mark Street station, appropriated $1,381.38 from the pension fund for the month of January to be paid on Feb. 1, I. M. Alexander, secretary of the board, announced.

The pension board, which is made up of two councilmen, two firemen, and two civilians, in their first meeting of the new year, found only one change necessary, Mr. Alexander said.

Newton Cuningham was seated to replace Vincent Clements of 397 South Main street whose office as councilmen terminated Jan. 1, as council representative on the board, Mr. Alexander said.

The other members are C. R. Pennisten, council representative, and chairman of the board; Mr. Alexander and John Cocheri, firemen's representatives; R. L. Schrock of 483 Summit street and F. R. McDaniels of 497 Silver street, civilian representatives.

Missionary To Speak At Caledonia Church

Paul Neilsen of Akron, on missionary furlough from Japan, will speak Thursday at 7:45 p. m. at the Caledonia Church of Christ. In addition to its interest as an account of mission work, his message is designed to be of interest educationally to students. He will have on display a number of objects from Japan and will show colored slides.

He will give a brief history of the Osaka Christian mission, and speak on mission work prior to World War II, and of present conditions in Japan. His talk will include also an outline of the needs of the country, of future plans of workers there, and will tell "how we can have a part in carrying Christ to the people." He and his family plan to return soon to the field "which since the recent war is more open to Christanity than ever before." This service will be open to the public, it was announced.

URANIUM DEPOSITS GOING TO BRITAIN

By The United Press

CAPETOWN, Jan. 21 — South Africa's potentially huge uranium deposits, discovery of which was announced only last week, will be turned over to Britain exclusively under arrangements now being prepared by the government, a reliable source said today.

The uranium deposits have been found at the Witwatersrand gold mines and present indications are that southern Africa may be one of the world's biggest atomic power fuel dumps.

South Africa already is working the mines, this source said, and small quantities of the Witwatersrand deposits have been extracted. The work, however, is still in the experimental stage.

A complete security blackout was clamped around all information on the deposits shortly after the Hiroshima and Nagasaki blasts, but some reports say there are huge deposits all the way from Witwatersrand to the Belgian Congo.

BOMBS GANDHI MEETING

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, Jan. 21—A 21-year-old Hindu, accused of exploding a homemade bomb near Mohandas K. Gandhi's prayer meeting last night, was held without bail today, charged with violation of the arms and explosive act. He faces a possible maximum sentence of life imprisonment. Police said they were trying to learn whether any "sinister" plot was behind what they now regard as an act of mischief. The youth, who gave his name as Madan Lal, told police he was a Hindu refugee from Pakistan whose relatives had been slain by Moslem rioters.

Three million adults in the United States never attended any kind of school.

CIO RISKS SPLIT ON WALLACE ISSUE

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—CIO leaders risked an internal blowup today as they met to draft a resolution repudiating the third party candidacy of Henry A. Wallace.

Vigorous opposition to such a stand is expected to rise from a number of left-wing CIO unions which already have endorsed the former vice president's campaign.

These endorsements, together with several statements opposing Wallace, were issued despite CIO President Phillip Murray's plea that the individual union action be withheld until the organizations' national political policy was laid down.

A session of CIO's nine vice presidents today, a meeting of the organization's 51 member executive board tomorrow, and a conference of the CIO Political Action Committee executive board on Friday will hammer out that policy.

The real showdown probably will come tomorrow in the CIO executive board's session where the left-wing unions have their full strength. They would be overwhelmingly outvoted on the PAC unit.

Palestine Commission Faces 2 Major Issues

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 21—The United Nations Palestine partition commission today tackles two major questions: that of asking for an international army to enforce the splitup of the Holy Land and that of opening Tel Aviv to Jewish immigration Feb. 1.

A Philippine request for action by the security council, the only UN organ empowered to provide military units, to enforce partition topped the commission program. Immediately after a decision on that point, the five-man commission planned to hear from Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, on London's program in connection with the general assembly's recommendation that a port area be cleared for admitting Jews within the next 10 days.

PLEA TOO LATE TO SAVE BABY. As they pleaded with Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis that their infant son be admitted to a hospital immediately, the baby died. The grieved parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jensen (above) who had gone to the mayor's office to complain that the child had been refused admittance to Minneapolis General hospital the night before although they believed he was critically ill.

ORDERS INQUIRY IN INFANT'S DEATH

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 21—Mayor Hubert Humphrey today summoned an emergency meeting of the Minneapolis public welfare board for what he said would be an "exhaustive inquiry" into the case of a four-months-old infant who died in his office reception room yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jensen, Minneapolis, parents of Arthur Jr., told William C. Sims, aide to the mayor, the child died following refusal of General (City) Hospital physicians to admit it Monday night.

Dr. Russell R. Heim, Hennepin county (Minneapolis) coroner, said the infant died of laryngeal-tracheal bronchitis. He said an inquiry by his office disclosed physicians at the hospital had administered penicillin injections and taken X-rays of the baby for a pneumonia check but had found no traces of that disease Monday night.

Dh. Heim said the child had been under treatment for a respiratory ailment since Dec. 29 and that the doctors "had acted in good faith in their handling of the case." He added that the physicians had asked the parents to bring the child back to the clinic yesterday morning.

Instead, Sims said the Jensens told him thay had come to the mayor's office to 'get a slip so we won't have to stand in line at the clinic." The coroner reported the baby stopped breathing while lying on a desk in the mayor's reception room and was pronounced dead upon arrival at General hospital two blocks away, where it was taken immediately.

In a statement last night, Humphrey called the incident a "shocking tragedy" and expressed his sympathy for the parents. The welfare board has general supervision over the city hospital, he explained.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert carried his bride across the threshold of the executive mansion last night, just like any other groom.

The couple flew in from Washington, where they had gone last weekend after spending two weeks in Florida. State GOP Chairman Fred H. Johnson accompanied them on the plane trip here.

Herbert and his bride agreed their Florida honeymoon was a "fine trip," although the weaher in Miami "wasn't so good the last week."

"It was cold and wet," Herbert added.

He attended a dinner last night for Murray D. Shaffer, retiring state highway director, and planned to be at his desk today.

Water Shortage Caused By Ice "Needle" Ends

By The Associated Press

ASHTABULA, O., Jan. 21—Water flowed normally through the Ashtabula Water Works Co.'s intake pipe in Lake Erie today, bringing an end to a water shortage caused by formation of needle or slush ice at the mouth of the company's intake pipe.

The shortage closed schools and a number of business places and industrial plants.

A rise in temperature broke up slush ice at the mouth of the intake.

STOPS TRADE DEALS WITH WAR BONDS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—James F. Merkel, state securities division chief, today ordered a halt to sales of securities coupled with sale of series "E" federal savings bonds, commonly known as war bonds.

Use of savings bonds to promote sales of securities in speculative ventures such as oil wells was described by Merkle as "merely bait to attract funds." He declared it was "impossible to keep such schemes from being deceptive."

Cease and desist orders already have been issued in two cases, he said.

"Investment dealers," Merkel said, "are not interested in handling such promotions. Most of them are advanced by individuals, some of whom fail to realize the deceptiveness."

"The Ohio division of securities has had frequent cases where people want to raise capital for business ventures by guaranteeing the investor will get his money back. The plan involves receiving money from the investor and applying 75 per cent of it to the purchase of a series E savings bond. The other 25 per cent is used to finance the promotion.

"In many cases the promoter does not commit himself as to the return for the use of the 25 per cent advanced, while in other cases an assignment is given for a percentage of future earnings. In some cases a fractional interest in the business is given.

"Under the Ohio securities act, registration is required before such offerings may be made in Ohio. In the cases that have come before the division, none has been absolutely void of misrepresentation."

Merkel said that an investor advancing money for such a scheme "receives for value only the present day value of the bond, which is 75 per cent of its maturity value 10 years hence."

MALAYA GRANTED SELF-GOVERNMENT

By The Associated Press

KUALA LUMPUR, Malay States, Jan. 21 — Great Britain signed agreements today with the sarong-clad rulers of nine Malayan states, creating a Federation of Malaya and returning internal self-government to the tin and rubber rich Malay peninsula.

Only the crown colony of Singapore, one of the great bastions of empire, was excepted.

The new federation, which represents the latest application of Britain's postwar colonial policy, will become a going concern after Governor Sir Edward Gent issues an order-in-council, probably about Feb. 1.

Thereafter, Britain waives jurisdiction in Malaya over everything except external affairs, defense and appeals to the privy council, the empire's supreme judicial body.

Sir Edward will become high commissioner. British resident commissioners in each state will have advisory powers only.

Senate Sleuths To Bear Down on Pauley

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Senators investigating how Edwin W. Pauley netted $832,703 in a three-year whirl at commodity speculation decided today to bear down on his trading activities since last Sept. 3.

That was the date when the millionaire California oil man became a special assistant to Secretary of the Army Royall and, by his own account, began closing out his commodity holdings as rapidly as sound business practice would permit.

Records which Pauley has submitted to a senate appropriations sub-committee show more than 40 commodity transactions since he took the army department post. Committee officials said he will be questioned about these at a public hearing Friday.

Dr. and Mrs. Eddy Address Two Groups First Day in Marion

Dr. Sherwood Eddy, who with Mrs. Eddy returned recently from an extensive trip in Europe, was a guest speaker at two meetings and Mrs. Eddy also appeared with him on one of the programs here yesterday. Dr. Eddy addressed members of the Marion Rotary club at their weekly luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding and last evening he and Mrs. Eddy spoke at the annual guest party of the Woman's Century club.

Dr. Eddy, internationally recognized lecturer and author told Rotarians and their guests of the devastation found in Europe. Great Britain has less than half of our income and because their main income article, coal, has been under centuries of private profiteering they have had little modern machinery introduced, Dr. Eddy stated. Now, he said, that the government has taken over the industry, the use of modern machinery is becoming greater.

The situation is even more desperate in France, he continued. She has been betrayed by all those she trusted and the battle scars from the first World war have not had a chance to heal, let alone those from the second world conflict, he said.

Little Hope In Italy

Communists countries lie so near Italy there is little hope left in that nation.

Dr. Eddy said he believes the only way out of the present world trouble, is the Marshall plan. The money asked to back this plan is only three per cent of the national income, he said. He quoted from the Bible, "He that saveth his life shall lose it." If the United States should refuse to save Europe, the United States may lose themselves, he declared.

Guests at the luncheon were Edward W. G. Borer of Philadelphia, Pa.; Byron N. Drake of Pueblo, Colo., Wesley Stowell of Findlay; Jack Hill, (Rotarian) of Detroit, and Ward Dennis, Paul W. Kohler, J. P. Sharkey and Ernest Davidson, all of Marion.

The reporter from Harding High school was Dianne Weary.

Century Club Talk

Japan has become Christianized Dr. Eddy told members of the Woman's Century club and their guests at the meeting held in the Federation Home. Written in their peace terms is a declaration that international affairs are not settled by wars and the people are really trying to live up to Christian principles, he believes. He had high praise for Gandhi and described Nehri of India, with whom he visited before going to Germany to hear Hitler make one of his speeches before the beginning of the war, as "the greatest prime minister" he had met. He emphasized the need for racial understanding and the need for racial cooperation if there is to be world peace.

Mrs. Eddy told of her contacts with the women of the European countries and the visits to the prison camps in Germany.

Mrs. Delmar Hamilton of the program committee, presented Earl N. Hale, who introduced Dr. Eddy. Dr. and Mrs. Eddy are intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hale who, with husbands and friends of the members, were guests of the club.

Mrs. T. H. Sutherland, president of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Ray Gatewood, president of the club, presided at the table during the social hour. Jonquils and daffodils and green and yellow tapers decorated the table. Arrangements for the social hour were in charge of Mrs. Paul Pocock, Mrs. Hector S. Young, Mrs. James R. Smith, Mrs. T. E. Sonnanstine and Miss Amy Turner. The program was arranged by Mrs. Harold Alexander, Miss Nell Freer, Mrs. Hamilton and Miss Abby Turner.

GLASS STEALS SHOW

PITTSBURGH — The industrial fame of Pittsburgh may lie in iron and steel, but it was the glass industry that nutured her early industrial roots. That much was evident at an exhibition of glassware recently held at the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society in Pittsburgh. ARABS AGAIN ATTACK JEWISH SETTLEMENT

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Jan. 21 — Arab fighters struck again today at the Jewish settlement of Yehiam, northeast of Acre, in a renewal of yesterday's machine gun and mortar attack which cost 16 lives.

Jewish sources in Jerusalem said they had been in telephone contact with Yehiam—one of 19 Jewish communities outside the boundaries of the proposed Jewish state—since the attack began.

They said they were told "some 500 Arabs, all in uniform, some with steel helmets and under the command of Iraqi, German-trained officers, began firing at the settlement from trenches they dug yesterday."

Nine Jews and seven Arabs died in yesterday's day-long fight which was finally broken up by the appearance of army and police units from Acre. The Arabs apparently were trying to wipe out the settlement of 80 residents.

It was reported that representatives of Yehiam went to Haifa yesterday to appeal for aid both from the Jewish agency and the British.

The homes of two British business man—both now in England—were blasted earlier today in the fashionable Katamon district of Jerusalem. There were no casualties.

Another Fox Drive Scheduled at Prospect

A fox drive will be held Saturday at Prospect O. H. Neimeyer, state game protector announced today. The hunters will assemble at Prospect school at 9 a. m. where buses will be waiting to take them to the drive. A lunch will be served at the school at noon.

The game protector expressed pleasure that Marion county hunters have exhibited such a high degree of sportsmanship consideration for the property in the area where fox drives have been held. He states that reports from other counties indicate that hunters there are not as careful with life and property as are Marion county hunters.

To assist local hunters in maintaining the standard of conduct they have always exhibited. Protector Neimeyer advises hunters faced with a choice of destroying property or losing the fox—let the fox go. The idea of the fox drive is to help the property owner, not to damage his property. The game protector stated that careless hunters who destroy property are liable to arrest.

Time for Common Sense

An Open Letter to The Congress of The United States

In the next few days the Congress will be asked to consider legislation to extend the shutdown of American distillers. Since this involves an industry which pays annually more than two and a half billion dollars in taxes, and employs directly and indirectly more than two million American workers, we think it might be useful for you and for the public to have some of the facts about the recent voluntary 60-day shutdown.

Schenley entered into the voluntary agreement and has lived up to its obligations 100 per cent.

Some American distillers did not shut down.

The Canadian distillers did not shut down.

The British distillers did not shut down.

No other country in the world closed its distilleries.

For the announced purpose of providing food for hungry people in Europe, the shutdown has been an absolute, costly, and utter failure.

The purpose of our government was to save wheat. We believe that not only was there no saving of wheat, but that wheat was actually lost.

The distilling industry uses practically no wheat. The actual figure is less than one thousandths of one per cent of the total wheat crop.

This industry uses principally corn, some rye and some barley malt. Most of this grain, if not so used, would ordinarily be fed to animals.

Normally, we use about 2 per cent of the total corn crop.

It was estimated by the President's Food Committee that the 60-day shutdown would save approximately ten million bushels of grain, but actually little or nothing was saved because in the process of distilling we return to the farmer feeds for poultry, hogs, dairy cattle and beef cattle which in the opinion of experts have an equal or greater feeding value than the grain we used.

We take out only the starch. We save all the protein and oil and add yeast. The resulting products are rich in protein, vitamins, amino acids and other feed values.

We are convinced that the final result is this—if a farmer has ten bushels of grain and sells us two bushels for distilling, and then feeds the eight bushels which he kept and the residue which we return to him, he will get as much added weight in feeding his animals as he would have achieved if he had fed them the original ten bushels.

We think he actually gets more.

Suffice it to say that the benefits of a balanced diet have been proved over and over again for both animals and human beings.

Our own Department of Agriculture, in numerous bulletins, has published many formulas for the use of distillers feeds to balance animal diets.

We admit, frankly, that the exact percentage of feeding value which we return to the economy is debatable.

You may think that instead of being more, it is even as much as fifty per cent less. Let's assume that you sincerely believe that the Luckman plan saved five million bushels of corn, or less than one tenth of one per cent of the total grain available.

But it wasn't corn the government wanted to ship abroad. It was wheat.

We knew that our feeds would add weight to cattle, but the government apparently was not interested in getting more meat. Now the Secretary of Agriculture tells the country that we are faced with a terrible meat shortage. It does get a little confusing, doesn't it, gentlemen?

In addition, we think they lost more wheat than they thought they saved.

When the farmer doesn't get our feed do you honestly believe he is going to let his poultry and hogs and cattle starve?

And maybe this particular farmer hasn't any corn. Maybe he has wheat. So he feeds the wheat to the chickens and hogs and cattle—and it was wheat that we wanted in the first place to ship to Europe.

The government of every country in the world, except our own, has adopted the principle that distilling takes nothing away from the food economy. This is proved by the fact that none of these governments have shut down their distilleries. Surely they are not purposely taking food out of the mouths of starving people.

England is running at capacity; Canada is running at capacity; eleven countries which have submitted their needs under the Marshall plan, have asked for grain for distilling and brewing.

Even assuming that the shutdown saved a few million dollars worth of corn, let's see what it cost:

It completely dislocated an industry which pays to the Federal and State governments more than two and one-half billion dollars a year in taxes.

It threw thousands of American workers out of work. We know because we alone kept more than one thousand on full pay.

It increased the price of the neutral grain spirits now in storage in the United States more than 150 per cent.

It opened the door wide for foreign distillers and foreign workers to take over the business of American distillers and the jobs of American workers.

We admit that these are strong statements, but we will prove every one of them right up to the hilt.

There is one other fact that ought to be clarified. The public was told that the stocks of whiskey in the U. S. were adequate—that we have over 550 million gallons of whiskey. What we have, actually, is about 65 million gallons of whiskey in this country which is four years old or older. This is about one year's supply. The rest is green whiskey not yet fit to drink. (Government figures show what is put away—not what is there after evaporation and outage.)

This is less aged whiskey per capita than in any distilling country on the whole face of the globe.

Now you may well ask us why we agreed voluntarily to shut down when we knew all of these facts and had communicated them to the Luckman committee.

We assented because we were conscious of an obligation to the American people, who decided in 1933 that they would prefer to have a sound distilling industry with employment and taxes and government regulation instead of bootleggers, gunmen and rot-gut. They put that in our Constitution.

So, when the call came to help hungry people, we wanted to contribute our share, heaped up and running over. We knew no grain would be saved, but when we were told that a great sacrifice on our part would be a tremendous psychological contribution for the purpose of securing assent from others to make comparable sacrifices, we agreed.

No other American industry was asked to make any comparable sacrifice. No other country asked its distillers to make any sacrifice.

We think it is time for a little common sense.

We think this whole question of the shutdown of distillers and the allocation of grain for restriction of production should be investigated by the Congress of the United States. Not in an hour, not in a day but in a full dress hearing with opportunity for all to be heard. Not just distillers, but the communities that are being ruined, the workers who are being thrown out of work and the farmers who have an interest in the feeding of their stock and the disposition of their products.

We believe that the public interest would be best served by full disclosure of all the facts in the full light of day.

Sacred Lily of India Blooms on Pearl St.

A sacred lily of India, owned by C. L. Doll of 326 Pearl street, is once again beginning to bloom. The blossom is about half out today, according to Mr. Doll. He said it will be about two days yet before it will be in full bloom.

The plant, which is about five feet in height, has bloomed four times previously, Mr. Doll said. It is just one stem with no foliage, on the top of which the blossom is formed, and the bulb of the plant is not in soil and has no moisture, Mr. Doll explained. The blossom, after it is completely out, remains for about five days. During the first three days of this time, a very offensive and displeasing odor comes from the bloom. However, Mr. Doll said he believes "the beauty of the plant is so wonderful you really don't mind the smell which comes from it."

Mr. Doll said he is glad to have anyone come to the house who would like to see the blossom of the Sacred Lily.

How Physician Uses Radioactive Phosphorus

Even before the atom bomb, science had discovered how to take certain ordinary substances and make them radioactive, that is, to endow them with the capacity for giving off certain powerful rays in much the same way that radium does. One of the elements which can be make radioactive is phosphorus.

When taken internally, radioactive phosphorus seems to be deposited in the bones and within cells which are growing rapidly. The rays emitted from it in these locations destroy nearby cells, particularly those which make up the tissue within the bone marrow where blood cells are formed. For this reason, radioactive phosphorus has been used in the treatment of a number of conditions affecting the blood.

One of these is known as polycythemia, a disorder in which there is a great increase in the number of red cells in the blood. Here the radioactive phosphorus acts on the tissues which produce red blood cells and lessens the danger of bleeding and clot formation.

In a certain group of cases, relief of symptoms, such as shortness of breath and fatigue, lasting from five to nineteen months, was brought about in half of those treated. Nearly a third more improved, but other treatment was required from time to time. In some cases, however, the white blood cells were reduced to such a low level before any lessening of red cells occurred that the treatment had to be discontinued.

Radioactive phosphorus has also been used for chronic lymphatic leukemia, a condition in which the white cells in the blood increase rapidly, while the number of red cells is far less than is needed for health.

Here the effects of the phosphorus may be excellent, moderately good, or a complete failure. One of the symptoms of chronic lymphatic leukemia is severe itching at the skin. This often is treated with X-ray. The radio-active phosphorus relieved the itching in one case when the X-ray treatment had failed.

In another form of leukemia, known as myelogenous leukemia, in which the white cells known as myelocytes are increased, the phosphorus brings about normal red and white cell counts, but has no effect on the enlarged spleen always found in this type of leukemia. In this disorder, radio-active phosphorus is apparently not as useful as the X-ray, but it may be employed in those patients who may not stand X-ray treatment very well.

From the foregoing, it would appear that radioactive phosphorus does have great value in the treatment of a number of serious disorders. However, it must also be noted that it does not cure the diseases discussed, but only brings about temporary relief.

There are two types of radioactive phosphorus, one of which is given by injection into a vein, and the other, by mouth. No matter which is used, the patient getting radioactive phosphorus must be under the constant observation of a doctor, so that the effect on the bone marrow and blood can be noted often and the dose adjusted, not only to the effects obtained, but to the special needs of each patient.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"I HAVE no instructions," Mr. "K." told Mr. Olsen, the manager of the Hotel Lansfield, "but didn't I hear you say you wished the services of the two guards, Adams and Miller?"

"Yes, I could use them," the hotel manager replied.

"Then you shall have them," the FBI man told him, rising. "But we will have to take their places."

He turned deferentially to Philip Veritzen.

"If you and your wife prefer to stay here," he said, "we shall not need you."

"Olga," Philip began, but his wife rose with her usual grace, but with decision in every line of her figure.

"Indeed, you couldn't keep me away," she said, with a smile at her husband that plainly sent all his resolutions flying. "And I assure you, I can mount guard over the bound men. I—was trained in revolver practice from my girlhood."

There was a fleeting shadow in her eyes, and I knew she was recalling the constant threat of sanguinary uprisings which was the lot of Balkan reigning families.

"By all means, come with us," Mr. "K." said cordially, and Philip Veritzen led the way back to the living room, which was exactly as we had left it, with the bound and blindfolded prisoners on the floor, and Adams and Miller watching them from their chairs.

The two men stood up as our party come in, and Philip Veritzen spoke to them quickly.

"You have done a good job," he said. "Now, I wish you to accompany Mr. Olsen and do whatever he asks you."

They stepped to the side of Mr. Olsen, and Mr. "K." put a quick question, after a glance at his wrist watch.

"We shall be leaving here in eighteen minutes," he said. "Will you have one of these men with the freight elevator on this floor two minutes before then?"

"Earlier, if you wish," the hotel manager told him.

"No, two minutes will be ample," Mr. "K." rejoined. "And I know all your other instructions are clear."

The rotund little man, who, we knew, was a marvel of efficiency, appeared to grow a bit taller as he answered.

"I am sure you will not be disappointed," he said, and Mr. "K." sensing the stiffness in the other's manner, held out his hand cordially.

"Mr. Veritzen assured me I should not have a single worry with you on the job," he said. "Now, I know it for myself."

"Thank you," Mr. Olsen said, his face lighting up. Then he, with Adams and Miller, went out of the room, Philip accompanying them to the door, and putting up the night chain again.

"I suppose the chain's a bit unnecessary," he said as he came back to us. "I already have a guard in the corridor."

"No precaution is unnecessary under the present set-up," the FBI man said. "And now, we'll make doubly sure of these lads."

He knelt beside them, and with deft, skillful movements roped them to a heavy couch.

"There," he said, rising, and dusting his hands together. "They cannot possibly get away, and therefore I am asking you, Mr. Veritzen with your wife, to guard these men."

"Why, where are you going?" Philip Veritzen asked, plainly startled, and disapproving.

CAT SAVES LIVES OF COUPLE, BABY

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21 — A shaggy tomcat today saved the lives of a young couple and their four-months-old daughter as gas from a broken line seeped into their apartment while they slept.

Apparently sensing danger in the gas-filled apartment, "Nicodemus," the cat, started to paw Mrs. Virginia Reefer, 19, who half awake. In a daze from the gas, she saw the frantic cat jump to the crib of her baby, Mary Priscilla, pull the covers off, and begin to paw her.

The baby began to cry, which jarred Mrs. Reefer wide awake. She aroused her husband Robert, 23, and rushed from the room with the baby. Mrs. Reefer collapsed on reaching the third floor, where her mother lived, but was later revived. Her dazed husband staggered into a wall mirror and cut himself in leaving their apartment.

Gas also seeped into the third floor of the apartment building, which housed 11 persons. None of the other residents was harmed. After the Reefers were hospitalized, a neighborhood search located "Nicodemus" who ran out a back door during the excitement.

Ohio Dry Chief Orders Strip-Tease Shows Out

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21—Ten proprietors of downtown strip-tease entertainment bars heard a cry of "take it off," last night—and the "voice from the rear" was that of Donald T. Geyer, chief enforcement officer of the Ohio liquor department.

The "it" to be taken off in the "bump-and-grind" parade places was the bar-flanked runway on which girls parade within two or three yards of predominantly male patrons.

Geyer warned that he would recommend their liquor permits not to be renewed if the shows go on.

Geyer toured the downtown strip-tease centers last night, ordered one closed and summoned nine others to appear today in the office of Detective Lieutenant Martin P. Cooney, head of the police racket squad.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

THE OTHER SIDE

Editor of The Star: On any issue, a good editor, in writing editorials, will take a middle of the road policy, carefully presenting both sides, so we, the general reading public, can pass our own conclusions on people or issues regardless of party or affiliations. In your case, it seems that regardless of consequences it's the party or die, or one select group or die.

Take for example your editorial of Jan. 17, "Cheap Money Scramble: Round 3." You say, quote: "that the unions can make more inflation or make less and would be doing a service to the country if they took the initiative in stabilizing wage rates to drive prices down."

This I have to say, which you did not say, is what happens every time we do get a raise. First we will take the reason why a raise in wages was asked for. I am of the opinion that the country does not owe me a living, but as long as I am physically able it does owe me a place ot work at a wage that will provide me and my family with food, clothing and shelter and a savings account to assure me in my old age that I will not be a charge of the poor house. Now since there is no set per cent of profit that any industry or corporation may make on its dollar invested, they add our raise and sometimes more on to their products and we are right back where we started, still not getting a decent living, clothing and shelter and no assurance that the poorhouse is not our destination.

Now I say it is high time that a fair per cent of profit be arrived at through an impartial investigating committee of industrial and corporation profits. Any money over this fair per cent should be taken off the price of the finished product of these industries and corporations. Then we workers will not be asking for more (as you called it), "cheap money." And don't come back with the idea that free enterprise and competition will bring prices down. Where cartels and corporations are concerned there ceases to be competition.

One glance at your cartoon on the same date leaves no room to question as to what party your paper backs. Also all previous cartoons that your paper has published. To me that cartoon of Saturday, Jan. 17, is silly. In the sense that President Truman is only a figurehead in trying to lead the way. What finally is accomplished can only be blamed on the party who is in the majority in the senate and in congress. God help us all if, as Will Rogers used to say, "All I know is what I read in the papers," if all editors were like you and we did not use our own brains to read between the lines.

CHARLES CURREN,
1178 Cheney Avenue.

Grange Proposes Plan Against Price Slumps

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—The National Grange, one of the country's largest farm organizations, yesterday proposed to congress a three-point program designed to protect agriculture from disastrous price slumps.

The program was outlined to the house agriculture committee by Albert S. Goss, Grange master. It would create a seven-member bi-partisan federal farm commission with broad powers to move farm surpluses into secondary uses or secondary markets.

Other proposals were:

1. Establishment of flexible floors on rices of farm commodities, to be raised when the carryover is not sufficient to meet normal needs, and lowered when the carryover indicates the accumulation of an unmarketable surplus.

2. Establishment of "stop-loss floors," below which prices would never be allowed to fall.

The proposed federal farm commission, Goss said, would have to maintain a reliable and perpetual inventory of supplies and market demands. It would have to make decisions as to what items should be pushed and what items spared.

Says Bicycle Demand Still Exceeds Supply

By The Associated Press

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 21—More than 2,000,000 bicycles were built and sold last year but the demand still far exceeds the supply.

This was the report of H. Clyde Brokaw of Shelby, O., president of the Bicycle Institute of America, who spoke at the opening of the organization's thirtieth annual convention here Monday.

Brokaw blamed shortages of materials for the inability of the bicycle industry to meet the demand and predicted 1948 production will exceed that of last year.

ALION TO ASK BIDS ON ELECTRIC POWER

Special to The Star

ALION, Jan. 21—That Galion's problem of adequate electric power should be given first consideration was indicated in action taken last night by City Council when a motion was passed unanimously authorizing city officials to draw up legislation to advertise for bids and enter into contract with the lowest bidder for purchase of supplemental electric power for the Galion Municipal light and Power plant. The motion was made by M. G. Thompson and seconded by R. W. Stall. Bids on two outside power companies, Ohio Power and Ohio Public Service, which were submitted during the former administration were opened at 5 p. m., Dec. 31, 1947, before the board of control (former Director William Amann and Service Director K. A. Poister) as one of the last acts of the administration. Action by council, Tuesday night, brought no comments from the large lobby on hand for the meeting.

An adjourned meeting of council will be held Friday night, Jan. 1, to act on several ordinances, including one to employ a consulting engineer for the municipal light and power plant.

A communication was read from Miss Maomi Weber, superintendent of the City Hospital, stating she wished to retain her position, and wanted to withdraw her resignation which she had submitted on Jan. 1, to become effective Feb. 15.

Ordinances passed by council included one to subdivide the city, by redistricting and subdividing the present four wards, equalizing the number of inhabitants in each ward.

Doctor, 96, Collects On Own Insurance Policy

By The Associated Press

CANAL WINCHESTER, O., Jan. 21—Dr. Lewis W. Berry, 96, today, collected on his own life insurance policy.

When the retired physician took out the policy in 1906, insurance moriality tables gave him no chance to outlive the policy and enjoy the money he put into it. He had five chances in 100,000 of reaching 95.

The Ohio State Life Insurance Co. of Columbus, which gave him a check for $1,089.49, said he was one of the few men to outlive—to that advanced age—an ordinary life policy.

The late John D. Rockefeller was another, the company said. He collected on a $1,000,000 policy several years ago at the age of 96.

10 Top Young Men Selected

Junior Chamber of Commerce Names Leaders Below Age of 35.

By The United Press

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 21 — A 34-year-old Memphis, Tenn., doctor credited with developing an anestehesia that eliminates childbirth pain was named one of the ten outstanding young men of 1947 today by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The young medical expert, Dr. Robert A. Hingson, is professor of anesthesiology at the University of Tennessee.

He recently received much attention in the medical world as one of the pioneers in the use of the hypospray, a flashlight-sized injection gun that fires hypodermic injections into the skin tissues.

Although other researchers worked in developing the spray which may replace the old-style "hypo" needle, Hingson was the first physician to use it.

John Ben Sheppard, 30-year-old president of the Jaycees, announced the selections and they received awards at a banquet Tuesday night at which Harold Stassen, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, was the speaker. Stassen was one of the "top ten" several years ago.

Others named were:

Lavon Peterson, Omaha, Neb., blind inventor and radio engineer. During the war he taught Army and Marine radiomen to repair sets in darkness.

Delesseps S. Morrison, 35-year-old mayor of New Orleans.

Dr. Glenn Theodore Seasborg, 35, Berkeley, Calif., nuclear chemist whose work led to discovery of the elements plutonium, American and curium.

Glenn Robert Davis, 33, congressman from Waukesha, Wis.

Thomas R. Reid, 33-year-old human relations expert of Baltimore, Md.

James Quigg Newton, 35, mayor of Denver, Colo.

Cord Meyer Jr., 27, New York, president of United World Federalists.

Richard M. Nixon, 34, Whitier, Calif., congressman.

Adrian Sanford Fisher, 33, atomic energy commission counselor, Washington, D. C.

BOY RESCUED FOLLOWING 100-FOOT TRIP UNDER ICE

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21—A nine-year-old boy was rescued from Chartiers creek after his body was carried 100 feet under ice.

Matthew (Ike) Cavanaugh was enroute home from sled riding when he fell through thin ice along the creek bank and disappeared. Three railroaders attracted to the scene ran 100 feet downstream and waded through water up to their waists, breaking the ice as they went.

A brown tassled cap bobbed to the surface a few moments later and brakeman Frank Abbott lunged for it and came up with Matthew in his arms. The boy is recovering from the ordeal at his home.

Says Houses Can't Be Turned Out Like Cars

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21—Calling the home-building industry "archaic" because houses do not emerge by thousands from factory assembly lines like automobiles is "sheer poppycock," President Thomas S. Holden of F. W. Dodge Corp. told the 67th annual Ohio Retail Lumber Dealers association convention yesterday.

The head of the New York firm of construction analysts said he doubted factory-built houses could compete successfully with custom-built homes because "you can't prefabricate home site, landscaping, gas, water and light facilities and you can't just drive a house to where you want to set it up."

He conceded prefabricated housing projects had usually proved successful when undertaken by experienced, well-capitalized builders who owned a sufficient number of homesites in areas with large local markets.

OHIOANS DRINKING MORE HOME LIQUOR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21 — Ohioans are drinking more firewater by their firesides and less over the brass rail, a state liquor department report disclosed Tuesday.

Dollars spent on hard liquor for home consumption in 1947 reached a record peak of $96,601,276 Director Dale Dunifon reported. This was $9,441,527, or 21 per cent, more than the dollar volume for home drinking in 1946.

The volume of hard liquor sold for home use by state liquor stores also set a new record. In 1947, the state monopoly system sold 5,871,032 gallons, an increase of 4.6 per cent over the 5,615,364 gallons used in 1946.

However, the dollar volume of permit holders purchases for resale in bars, taverns and night clubs dropped more than 21 per cent. Such purchases in 1947 totaled $40,926,880 compared with $52,167,209 in 1946.

Figures for the amount of liquor bought by permit holders also reflected a slump in by-the-drink trade. Gallons sold to permit holders in 1947 totaled 2,665,306, or 26 per cent less than the 3,636,937 gallons in 1946.

Dunifon's report showed the total amount spent in state liquor stores in 1947 almost equalled the peak year of 1946, although total consumption of hard liquor was down nearly 700,000 gallons. This was explained in part by an increase in availability, and sales of better quality and higher priced liquor.

Total sales of state liquor stores in 1937 were $137,528,157, a $1,798,801 decrease from sales totaling $139,326,958 in 1946.

The total volume of liquor sold, however, fell off about 7.5 per cent. In 1947, state liquor stores sold 8,556,339 gallons compared with 9,252,302 gallons in 1946.

Sales for the recent holiday season, the last 10 days of December, averaged almost $1,000,000 daily.
